The Foot Health Assessment Program is designed for a range of health professionals and others working within Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander Health, to provide the opportunity to gain or consolidate knowledge and skills in basic foot care assessment, management and referral.

The program explores how to perform a basic foot care assessment, determine foot care requirements and use basic equipment and topical medications where the services of a professional podiatrist are not required.

Nationally accredited and evidence based, the techniques taught within this program are designed to promote the best practice outcomes for patient care.

The one-day workshop session involves a presentation of content and practical activities where students will be performing vascular, sensorineural and dermatological group-based foot health assessment activities. These include doppler ankle-brachial indicator (ABI), toe pressure, monofilament and vibration assessments.

Course delivery and assessment for the Foot Health Assessment Program includes a one-day face-to-face workshop, in-class activities assessed by facilitator, workplace activity, and an online assessment completed via Benchmark*IQ*.
